Intermodal: the smart way to move freight across North America

Road capacity is tighter than ever. Fuel costs are unpredictable. Finding truck drivers for long-haul corridors is an ongoing battle. You need a smarter way to move your freight across North America—a way that cuts costs, reduces emissions, and, above all, is reliable.

Properly managed, intermodal is unbeatable

With the right end-to-end management, intermodal transportation combines the flexibility of road with the efficiency of rail, delivering consistent performance without compromise.

Kuehne+Nagel's North American Road Logistics offering spans the full intermodal spectrum—from port drayage to cross-border flows across the US, Canada, and Mexico. The freight moves seamlessly into each country's domestic FTL and LTL network.

As an Intermodal Marketing Company, or IMC, you can think of Kuehne+Nagel as your single point of contact for the entire journey, managing your freight's journey from end to end, ensuring dependable, scalable capacity even during peak seasons. We work with rail carriers, drayage truckers and terminal operators so you don't have to.

Here's how it works

Before your freight moves

We identify which lanes fit intermodal and build the right business case, set realistic transit times and lock in the routing, capacity and pricing structure that meets your needs

While your freight is in transit

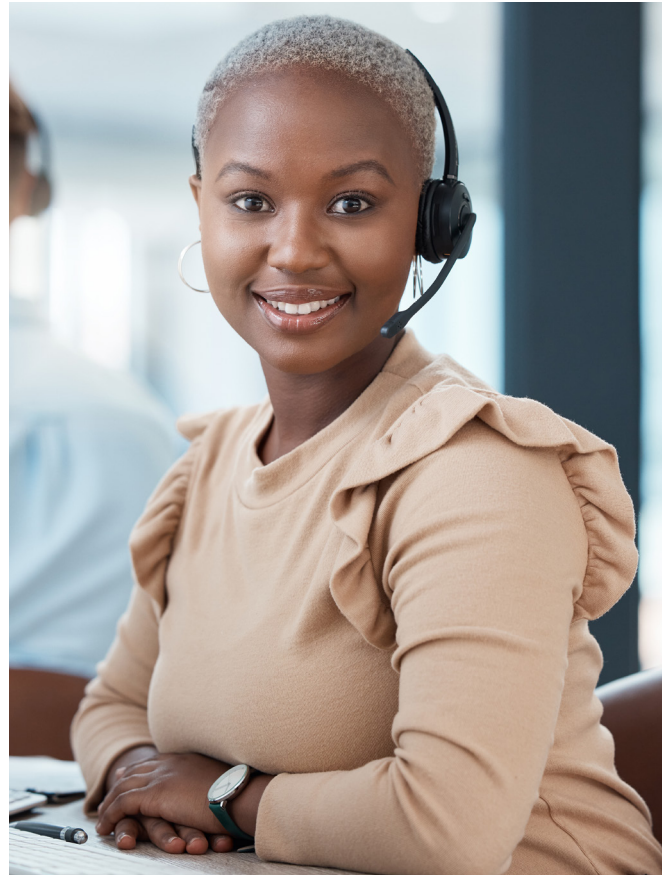

We stay visible and accountable at every handoff. Our digital platform, myKN, gives you real-time visibility of your shipments.

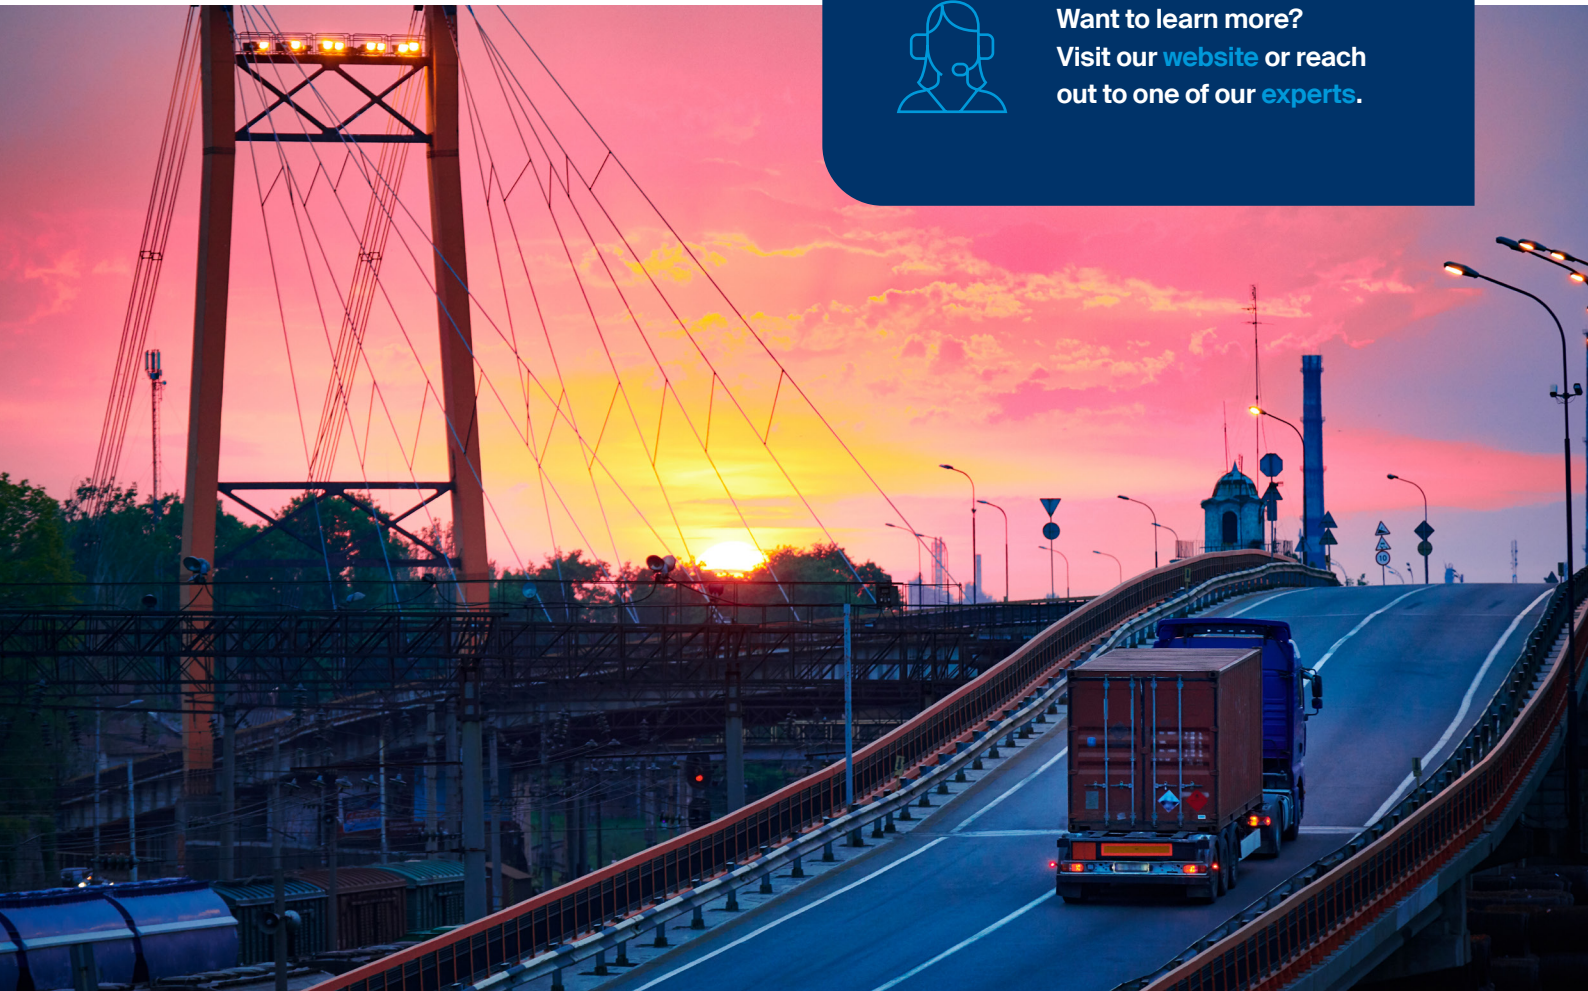

After delivery

We measure cost, service and emissions performance by lane, and use that data to make the next move better.

Whether you're moving consumer goods, industrial equipment, or temperature-sensitive cargo, we have the network and expertise to get your freight to your customers efficiently and on time.
